- a. An envelope addressed to a soldier of [REDACTED], postmarked 20 March 1951, examined by Censorship Office [REDACTED], and mailed from the Voronash Oblast
 - b. A letter, dated 1 February 1951, and written by a soldier in Germany who stated that he could not send a parcel home because he did not serve with the army to buy things, but to perform his duty toward the fatherland. Later, in civilian life, he could consider mailing parcels as other people did, but not at present, as he had only a private's pay which just sufficed to purchase the bare necessities. **
